

I have been a very loyal listener to K-LOVE 107.1 FM in Oregon for the past two years. I was upset to hear the FCC is proposing changes to give priority to Low Power

FM stations over FM translator services and worried at the idea of losing my local K-LOVE station.

I cannot tell you how many friends and family members are affected every day by K-LOVE's positive radio programming. We have a saying that we use all the time, "I love K-LOVE". I am always amazed at how many cars I see with K-LOVE bumper stickers - they are a constant reminder of their strong importance in my community - we all "love K-LOVE".

K-LOVE constantly supports local community groups through a free "Community Events Calendar", as well as by sponsoring local and regional concerts and teaching events. K-LOVE has proven itself to be a home for wholesome, family-centered entertainment, as well as a reliable source for current news and events and an important member of my community. K-LOVE, without a doubt, has proven itself to be in the public's best interest.

If I were to lose my local K-LOVE translator, I would be lost. There is no local replacement. It would be a tragedy.

I strongly urge the FCC to support K-LOVE by limiting the expansion of Low Power FM so it will not effect my K-LOVE station.
